CONSOLIDATION TALK FOR TINTIC

Story Is Sprung That Iron Blossom, Sioux Con. and Cafisa Are in Deal.

It is now claimed that a big consolidation scheme for Tintic is being incubated and it is declared that this is the reason why so much attention is being given to Carisa these days. Of course nothing has been done as yet that would bring out an acknowledgment from anybody interested, so no effort was made yesterday to get a verification. The story, as it comes to The Herald, is an interesting one, just the same, and there may be more foundation for it than may appear at first glance. It was told by a mining man yesterday who has been industriously trying for a week past to learn the reason for the advance in the price of Carisa stock from less than 40c to over 60c a share

"I believe there is something brewing in the way of a consolidation of the Sioux Boston, Oct. 2.—War news made quite a scare this morning and brought in considerable liquidation. The buying was good, however, and we think purchases were bargains this morning. We do not believe any serious trouble will come from this Bulgarian scare, and think that stocks will be 10 points higher before they are 5 lower. North Butte is off 15 points from the high, and Copper Range is off to points. Buy either of them for 20 points in case of a Republican victory. Shannon and Old Dominion were the strongest in the list. Good news is being circulated on Superior & Boston, and we notice considerable buying by people who notice to state than from the various properties at Alta under this management Thursday night. Consolidated, Iron Blossom and Carisa, 'said The Herald's informant. "I have heard enough during the past few days to convince me that a tentatives understanding, at least, has been reached. Whether it involves other properties than those I have mentioned or not, I have been unable to learn. As it comes to me, the elimination of A. H. Holdaway as a factor in the Sioux Consolidated has paved the way to a better feeling and un-factor in the Sioux Consolidated has paved the way to a better feeling and understanding between the Sioux Consolidated and Iron Blossom interests. It is said, also, that developments of the past few months in both the Sioux and Iron Blossom have shown that the Carisa ground might not be a bad thing to have control of. Not that it has yet been demonstrated that ore-bearing channels in the other properties will enter Carisa ground, but rather that there was such a possibility.

"C. E. Loose, I understand, is the man who has been able to see the advisability of such a combination as I have mentioned, and he has been frank enough to share his opinion with the Iron Blossom management and suggest the advisability of throwing these properties together and picking up the control of Carisa as a safeguard against possible future trouble. With an understanding of some such character with the Iron Blossom management, Mr. Loose skipped off to New York and made a deal for a large block of Carisa stock—how much I do not know, but I have heard it was more than 50,000 shares, or all that the Joe Bamberger for crowd could rustle. Since the closing of that deal brokers in New York and Salt Lake, as well, have been at work picking up as much of the stock as possible without working the price too high. It has been able to see the advisability John B. Newman, president of the Wi-huja Gold Mines company, which owns the now famous lease on that part of the Therien company's domain, has made an inspection of the strike reported a few days ago as being a most sensational one. The writer declares that the strike is the biggest thing of the kind ever made in the state of Nevada, and after explaining that it was made on the 265-foot level, about 100 feet west of the shaft, and after are being mined and raised to the surface daily from this level, the statement is made that "there seemed to be gold everywhere. A candle held to the vein at almost any point revealed whole masses of the precious metal." The writer then goes on to say: "C. E. Loose, I understand, is the man Lake, as well, have been at work picking up as much of the stock as possible without working the price too high. It has been impossible to get direct information on the subject so far, but I have a notion

During the week ending last night the mines of the Tintic district sent to market ninety-nine carloads of ore, eighteen of which were twenty-ton cars from the Colorado that went to the Knight smelter, the week fifth to cars that reached out. the rest fifty-ton cars that reached outside plants. One car from the outside, a carload of ore from the Yellow Pine Mining company, in the Yellow Pine district, Nevada, was shipped in to the Knight

Some of the Big Things in Mines and Smelters That Have Not Made Good. Some unfortunate investments of the Guggenheim interests in the mining line are just coming to light and explain in a measure why there has been such a housecleaning in the field forces, for the purchase of these properties was largely upon the recommendation of the highest paid mining engineering talent in the country, says the Boston News Bureau. The Guggenheim Exploration company, which is the principal mine owner of the Guggenheim outfit, has expended a total of $27,000,000 in acquiring properties with-in a comparatively few years. One of the leading mining assets of the company was the property at Valerdena, Mex.
This was a silver-lead group, and was operated privately for years by Barton Sewall and associates, known as the old Sewall and associates, known as the old 99 American Smelting & Refining crowd. The property produced between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 from the old silver-lead ground from carbonate ores. Then no zinc had appeared in the ores and smelting costs were exceedingly low, and it was possible at that time to derive exceedingly large profits in treatment of custom ores. The Sewall interests sold the properties to the Guggenheims for $6,000,000, and they expended $1,000,000 in a new furnace plant expended $1,000,000 in a new furnace plant and $400,000 on a new power plant. At the same time they purchased a copper property, sixteen miles distant, and built a railroad to connect it with the Valerdena plant, so that the total investment at this point amounted to not far from $10,000,000. Soon after the Guggenheim control, however, arsenic came in the ores, and operating conditions changed so that it is now said that there has not been a dol-lar of profit derived to date on this in-vestment. At the copper mine they went down 600 feet and found that the ore is practically exhausted, running at the lower levels but 1% per cent copper. Here is a $10,000,000 investment, which could probably not be resold for over one-tenth of the cost. Valerdena is now a fighting of the cost. Valerdena is now a fighting word in the Guggenheim offices.

A second pronounced Guggenheim failure was a silver-lead property near Silverton, Colo., for which $2,500,000 was paid for the mine and an additional $750,000 expended in a new mill and equipment, only to discover when the mill was ready to operate that the mine was practically

The Guggenheims likewise have a $7,-000,000 investment in the Yukon, but the 000,000 investment in the Yukon, but the public was given an opportunity to help shoulder this burden. The selling of the shares was given to Lawson, who was given an option upon 700,000 shares at $5 per share. The Yukon flotation—some people call it by a harsher name—resulted in 400,000 shares of the company being distributed to the public at from $6 to $8 per share. The distributor got his stock for $5 per share net, but as he had previous to the public offering distributed 200,000 shares among a favored few at 5½, he was obliged to take this stock back in the open market from $6 to $8,

MINING STOCK EXCHANGE.

Iron Blossom Moves Up at a Clip That Brings Out the Stock.

From an opening at $1.50 yesterday morning Iron Blossom was moved up during the day 20c a share. It closed strong at 15c above the opening price, notwithstanding the fact that offerings at the standing the fact that offerings at the advancing prices were liberal. It was natural to expect that Sioux Consolidated would fall into line and follow Iron Blossom, but it failed to respond to the lift given its neighbor. Uncle Sam, with its 5c dividend posted, registered all of its transactions at $1.12½, while Carisa continued strong at 58c to 60c. There was considerable inquiry for Seven Troughs and it acted stronger than it 'as done for some time past. It is evidently headed for Reasons Why Disclosures in some time past. It is evidently headed for higher prices.

During the two regular and open board calls a total of 58,400 shares of stock, with a selling value of $48,298.50, changed hands. Following is the list of final quotations and record of sales made during the day: Forenoon. || Afternoon.

at 5½, he was obliged to take this stock back in the open market from $6 to $8, so that the net Lawson profit was $6 of a point on the 400,000 shares, or $270,000. The Guggenheims paid the advertising bills of about $900,000, and received an acknowledgment in the shape of an immense bunch of Lawson pinks sent to the Mauretania when Daniel Guggenheim sailed for Europe, shortly after the Yukon flotation.

Another chapter could be written of the Guggenheim investment for the American Smelting Securities company of between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 in the three smelting plants on the Pacific coast. These included the Tacoma plant, for which $4,000,000 was paid, or many times the price at which the same plant had been offered to other interests six months previous to the time the Guggenheims purchased it. The Selby plant on San Francisco bay cost almost as much as the Tacoma plant. It is not now productive of earnings, because it is shut down tight, the agricultural interests having secured a permanent Injunction against its operations because of the smelter tumes.

A third was the San Bruno plant, which was to have been built on San Francisco bay, at a cost of $7,000,000, but was abandoned after an expenditure of $1,500,000 because of court injunctions from the agricultural interests.

when they encountered this fortune is putting it mildly. They are at it hammer and tongs, and the way they are piling up the sacks is an inspiring example for others to go at and dig for other bonanzas. This lease is on the same vein and ore line upon which the Riddle-Riley and the Byone-Charters leases are located with their demonstrated wealth properties. This demonstration shows a properties. This demonstration shows a continuous ore-bearing fissure for 800 feet. It is there for any critic or croaker to examine, test and become convinced."

KINDERGARTEN'S NEW HOIST IN COMMISSION

The new hoist on the Kindergarten mine was started on Monday, says the Seven was started on Monday, says the Seven Troughs Miner.
From surveys Mr. Ellithorpe expects to cut the vein in the shaft at a depth of 350 feet and work is being crowded to that end. At this point, which is 125 feet deeper than any point in the present workings, drifts will be run both ways to provide for stoping.

The Kindergarten company until the erection of its own hoisting plant and the sinking of its double compartment shaft was much handicapped in the handling of its ore. All of the ore was raised through the Wihuja shaft and the hoisting apparatus of the company could be used during one shift only. They will now operate three shifts and they expect to tax the capacity of their mill to its utmost in the treatment of its own ores.

Skill, Experience, Equipment

The way we maintain our reputation and sustain our business is by a judicious blending of skill, experience, knowledge, equipment and an honest desire to render a dollar's worth of service for a dollar.

The 20th century abounds in discoveries of great worth, but in none of the sciences has there been greater progress than in the line of medicine and surgery. It has made it possible to stamp out yellow fever, and has taken the sting from smallpox. We do not say now that a bullet is probably lodged in a certain part of the body.

WE LOOK INTO THE BODY

With the X-ray and locate it definitely. In diphtheria antitoxine has displaced hopelessness, and abstract results are assured. With cocaine a finger may be amputated while the patient looks but does not feel.

THE MAN WHO NEGLECTS

His health and has symptoms patched up until he finds it convenient to obtain a cure is of the class of man who patches his wagon with old wire to save a small blacksmith bill, or the fellow who spends 20 minutes every day for a year taking down and laying up a fence because it would require an hour's time and a dollar's worth of timber to make a convenient gate. Our price for a cure of any ailment in our line is cheap, but not too cheap. When you buy meat too cheap you smell what you have saved when it is cooking.
